

The Black & White Building, Shoreditch

Architect: Waugh Thistleton Architects

Product: Timber Brise Soleil

Case Study:

Contrasol designed and installed these visually-striking vertical timber brise soleil to this commercial premises in Shoreditch, the tallest mass-timber office building in Central London. By using entirely structurally engineered wood for it's frame, the building has 37 percent less embodied carbon than a concrete structure of the same size, making it a truly green and sustainable building in the heart of London.
